

BLAST OFF INTO SPACE

The stars that dot the night sky are only a few of the billions of stars in the Universe. Balls of ice, rock, or gas known as planets move around, or orbit many stars. Planet Earth orbits a star called the Sun and is the only place in the universe known to support life. In this show we take the audience on an intriguing trip into space where they will catch a glimpse of the enormity of the Universe!

They will learn many interesting facts and get to meet some astronauts on the moon! As always there will be active participation and delightful space songs to complete the scene!
